

Distijl Personal Barrel Selection Terms and Conditions

- Distijl is unable to disclose the distillery that produced our aged bourbons due to confidentiality agreements and partnerships. We WILL disclose the age, the mash bill, the state of distillation, the classification of the distillery, and the proof of the product, assuming this information is available to us.
Distillery Classifications (examples for this purpose):
 - Heritage: Distilleries such as Heaven Hill, Wild Turkey, Barton, Buffalo Trace, Brown-Forman, MGP, Four Roses, etc.
 - Non-Heritage: New Riff, Rabbit Hole, Jephtha Creed, Wilderness Trail, OZ Tyler, others.
- Any club or vanity stickers applied to bottles will be done ONLY post-purchase. By signing this waiver, you agree to assume all responsibility for any re-labeling activity that occurs post-sale, and you agree to indemnify, defend and hold Distijl harmless in this regard and with regard to any and all damages or losses Distijl may incur, including but not limited to its reasonable attorneys' fees and costs. Distijl will not procure, print, or adhere stickers or labels that knowingly violate IP or copyright laws, as spelled out below.
- Labels and designs cannot violate any IP, copyright, etc. Also, the label must be legal with the TTB and contain no profanity, vulgarity, content that is culturally insensitive, or any other content deemed inappropriate by the Distijl brand. (See guidelines below.) Distijl reserves the absolute right to refuse to apply any stickers or labels.
- Distijl is required to apply our TTB-approved regulatory label to each bottle. If a customer requires design modifications related to this label, we will work with the customer to modify the aesthetic look/feel within the TTB approved guidelines, and potentially at the customer's expense.

Content Prohibited Under Intellectual Property Laws

The following list is NOT comprehensive. Distijl reserves the absolute right to expand the scope of this list in its sole discretion. If in doubt, consult with an attorney.

- NO use of names, logos, content, photos, pictures, or other unauthorized use of intellectual property relating to colleges/universities, professional sports teams, video games, clubs, organizations, or Olympic merchandise. Modifications may not avoid infringement.
- NO use of names, logos, photos, pictures, or other unauthorized use of the intellectual property of musical groups or musical artists. You also cannot modify the name or other intellectual property relating to these individuals to avoid infringement.

- NO use of names, logos, photos, pictures, or other unauthorized use of intellectual property from known distilleries, producers of distilled spirits, or known brands either past or present. You also cannot modify the name or other intellectual property relating to distilleries or distilled spirits producers to avoid infringement. Bottle designs, logos, and depictions cannot mimic or copy the likeness of the brand, in such a manner that would seem confusing to a consumer.
- NO use of photos, logos, or other artwork depicting actors, actresses, models, or other celebrities. Just because you take a photograph of a celebrity does not necessarily give you the right to use that photograph, even if you digitally manipulate the photograph. Exception: content depicting political figures is permissible if used to promote political free speech (and not to endorse products). A political figure is usually a person holding or seeking political office. While certain celebrities are sometimes active in politics, Distijl does not allow the use of content depicting celebrities in any manner unless expressly authorized by that person.
- NO use of logos of companies, trademarks, or names of companies, unless you are the holder of the trademark or an agent for that company. Documentation identifying your valid trademark right and the goods and/or services to which it pertains may be required. A valid trademark right consists of a trademark registered with a national government organization. Exception: content depicting political parties is permissible if used to promote political free speech, and the content does not otherwise use or depict other trademarks, names, or logos.
- Use of logos, names of groups, organizations, or clubs not covered by trademark (such as a Facebook group, or social club), is permitted, however proof as a right holder or administrator of the group, club, or organization may be required.
- NO pictures or photographs of products, such as toys or potentially copyrighted memorabilia. Even if you own such a product, intellectual property laws may still prohibit you from featuring pictures of it. For example, you cannot take a picture of a famous toy, and create a label depicting that famous toy from that picture.

I hereby certify that I have read, comprehend, and will cooperate with the terms and conditions contained in the statements as described in this document. If I violate any terms and conditions, I violate my agreement with Distijl and shall indemnify, defend and hold harmless Distijl for any violation or damages that may result, including reasonable attorneys' fees and costs.

These terms and conditions are in addition to and not in limitation of any other agreement or contract entered into between you and Distijl.
